From the Editor

Matthew J. Mac Vittie

Hello and welcome to issue 25 of The War of 1812 Magazine! This current issue represents a very special milestone as it marks the tenth anniversary of the magazine’s publication. First started by Dr. John Grodzinski with help from some of the top scholars in the field, the War of 1812 Magazine represents an alternative outlet for publication of the very best in original research, newly discovered materials and all things related to the War of 1812 both nationally and internationally.

A heartfelt thank you to the current and past members of our editorial board who have spent many an hour writing and reviewing materials to insure the War of 1812 Magazine is publishing the most accurate and thoroughly researched articles and book reviews. Additionally, I would be remiss in not extending that thank you to Don Graves and Dr. Gary Gibson for their tireless support and suggestion in new ways to push the magazine forward and Robin Brass Studio for their generous sponsorship over the years.

Lastly, the magazine would not be possible without the ten plus years of support from Dr. John Grodzinski and Robert Burnham. Both are first-rate scholars in the field and have spent many years making the magazine what it is today. Robert specifically spends countless hours publishing the Napoleon Series, the foremost scholarly online publication for the Napoleonic era.

I hope you enjoy our ten year milestone issue of the war of 1812 Magazine.

Matthew Mac Vittie